Paint Project Enters Final Stages

Weather delays now aside, the paint contractor is focused on door painting and roof painting this week. Some remaining primary surface areas should have little or no impact on pedestrians. The high-traffic areas will see work in the evening and on weekends until completed. It is hoped that the next update to On Target subscribers is that the project is complete.

Online Auctions Continue

The last of the COATC fire pumpers was recently sold online to a fire department in Tennessee. You never know what might be the next thing up for sale. The Port Authority was a pioneer among Ohio governments in getting onto GovDeals.com to sell hundreds of excess equipment items in the three years.
