"Willkommen in der Mitte, xperion"

It's now official. The newest building on the Aerospace Center campus is being built for xperion Energy and Environment, a German manufacturer part of Avanco Group. A welcome ceremony held on the campus yesterday served as a welcome. "Willkommen in der Mitte" is translated to mean "Welcome to the Center."

Avanco Group representatives are joined by Lt. Gov. Mary Taylor and Heath Mayor Mark Johns in turning dirt

"Public-private partnerships work and the Aerospace Center campus is a shining example of that," said Port Authority CEO Rick Platt in welcoming xperion. "Our customers know. We don't go away after the building is occupied. Your success is our success."
