Infrastructure Investments

As the construction season winds down for 2017, there's not a wind-down at the Port Authority. Revamping of the Horton Building Annex is well underway and will continue. Minor projects that, collectively, add up to an improved and safer campus are among the late season investments underway.

$354 Million in Potentia Financing

The Port Authority closed on a $10 million bond financing with Licking Memorial Health Systems today. The financing raises the total of Port Authority-led financings to over $354 million through its Potentia Financing program. The range of projects include the L Brands distribution center in New Albany and multiple equipment and building projects with LMH.
